The Jones Family

I'm to write the story of the Joneses. I get out the family tree, a beautiful work of Art in blue print with tracings back to Revolutionary times. All of the branches have names and dates but that is not enough. My Children ask, "Who were these people?", "What kind of folks were they?", "Where did they live?" and "With what accomplishments did they bless the earth?" Strange to say the human race seems to keep better records of their pedigreed cows than of their own ancestors. We mix races rather indiscriminately - boy falls in love with a dimple, a smile or some other physical or mental loveliness and romance carries on. So let's shake the family tree and catch whatever drops - let's go back and dig. I am indebted to Uncle George Wolfe Jones who went on his visits making notes in the little red book he carried; to F. U. Jones who fell heir to this book; to the Spaulding girl who delved into public Archives; to Herbert Jones and others who gave their support. With this help, I hope we'll have some authentic facts from which to answer some of these questions. My opinion is, that the history of these families - my ancestors will reveal no great deeds of valor - no special marks of outstanding leadership - no record of excellence in athletics and so far as I know, no weakness in moral fiber, however, it would be a rare field that had no thistles. As I scan the records that are available, I must present these ancestors to you as a hardy, God-fearing line of men and women who believed in and lived by the Golden Rule and the Christian faith. They were for the most part, pioneers in clearing the forest and tilling the soil in what was once a wooded country where they finally settled in and around Hardin County, Ohio. We can trace them from Wales, Great Britain before the Revolutionary war, over to the eastern seaboard of America - to New Jersey - to Pennsylvania - to Knox County and finally to Hardin County in Ohio, where they felled the timber built log houses and raised large families.

My Grandfather moved his family to Hardin County in 1854. Two sons, Abner and Christopher came earlier. Christopher first acquired 160 acres of timber land in 1849. The legal description of this tract is SE $\frac{1}{2}$ of Sec. Washington twp. Abner bought 80 acres described as SE $\frac{1}{2}$ of SW $\frac{1}{4}$ of Sec. 3, Washington twp. Christopher's title was Conveyed by J. Jones and C. Wolfe and Abscon by J. Jones, so we must conclude that Grandfather first took title and then conveyed title to each of the sons to give them a start. Then in 1854 Grandfather came with his family and the next year bought timber land in Section 23 in Washington Twp. He eventually owned 200 acres. Whether or not he got it all in 1855 when the transfer was made, is not clear.

 Adam Oith conveyed a part or all of it to Grandfather. Blanchard Twp. joined Washington Twp. to the east and Dunkirk was the nearest trading place. Roughly speaking, Dunkirk was about three miles from where Grandfather lived. In 1952 Dunkirk celebrated its Centennial anniversary and some interesting history was published at that time. Some of this history was no doubt legendary but most of it authentic. There are records to show that there were some settlers around this area as early as 1831 and that the first white child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar, in the territory later called Blanchard Twp. That was in 1834. At that time it is said that there were but three women in all of the three contiguous townships - Jackson, Blanchard and Washington. The entire territory of Hardin County was heavily wooded except

✓ in the immediate vicinity of Kenton and the Hog Creek marsh which was a swamp with a heavy growth of marsh grass and cat-tail. The timber in this part of Ohio is all hardwood - oak, hickory, elm, walnut beech and others of the smaller variety such as ironwood, lindum and basswood.

Howe's History of Ohio gives the ~~population~~ population of Hardin County, 1840 as 4,509 inhabitants. In the same year, Kenton the County seat had 300 inhabitants (pages 877-878). It is said there were 9 people to the section in Hardin County so the Joneses weren't entirely in a primitive forest. There were other people there with saw mills, horses and oxen clearing the few acres at a time, building log houses, splitting rails and making lumber.

I want it definitely understood that in telling this story, I'm drawing largely from what I've heard from my parents, what I've seen reflected from these former years and what I've read and so much was learned from family discussions - those exciting stories handed down made lasting impressions.

I am one of five generations now living and we represent five families. When I say my generation, I mean first Cousins. There is one each, representing the five families of my uncles and Aunts, so we can only exchange helps found in old letters, Old histories, County legal record and the like. We all have rich memories of stories handed down to us and I want to picture their lives as nearly correct as my memory will permit.

Fences were of rails of course. In Howe's History of Ohio, he tells of a man coming to Ohio, splitting rails and getting paid twenty five cents a hundred rails. That doesn't sound unreasonable - men were used to splitting rails - rail timber was plentiful and twenty five cents would buy more than now. That man piled up 1200 rails to get three dollars to buy - what do you think? - a marriage license.

I seem to remember that my Father said they moved from Knox County in wagons - how else could they come? There was only one R R through Hardin County - that was called the Mud River R R - afterwards, in my time it was known as the I. B. & W. and Uncle Will Fleming said those letters stood for "I Better Walk".

The Pennsylvania R R was built through

Hardin County in 1858, and before the Pennsylvania road came through there was a small settlement at the corner of what is now Main street of Dunkirk and the Patterson Pike and it was called Geneva. I get that from the history of Dunkirk published at the time of the Centennial (1932). When the Pennsylvania came through, the town was moved north to the railroad and named Dunkirk.

Grandfather was 54 years old when he came and the older boys in their twenties and they went to clearing and building.

Uncle Christopher cleared a few acres on his 160 and built a log house on the farm now owned by Herbert Jones. This farm is known as "The Old Homestead Farm". I saw the spot this summer where the log house stood and there is one tree standing that he left for a landmark. It stands about thirty rods southeast of the large farm house that Christopher built later. It was the practice in many instances to take off the better timber for saw logs and for rail splitting, then girdle the remaining trees so they would die. This became what they called a "deading". Later this tract would be fenced with split rails and the remaining trees cleared after which they would have a "log rolling". Neighbors would come in and help to roll the logs in a heap to burn. After the new field was cleared of logs and brush it became a field of stumps and they called that "newground". The first breaking or scratching of the soil amongst the roots and stumps couldn't be much more than a scratching. Sometimes with one horse and a "double shovel plow" it was seeded. The soil was black with leaf mold and produced good corn amongst the stumps. If wheat were planted it had to be harvested with cradles. A cradle is a scythe with a parallel row of wooden fingers the length of the blade so that the man operating the cradle can lay the grain in a swath. Later a man would rake the swath in bundles and tie it into sheaves.

In time the roots would die and preparing the ground would be less difficult. Oxen were used extensively in clearings. They were better in brush and amongst logs than horses. An ox team will shut their eyes and wade through brush and over logs where horses being more sensitive will refuse to go. Team is not the proper word since a pair of oxen is referred to as a "yoke of oxen".

Some men made a business of log hauling. The timber was heavy and a log three or four feet in diameter was common. A log wagon was usually a heavy wagon with heavy balsters over each axle, built up as high or possibly a bit higher than the standards. This made a level base on which to load the log. Loading a log is a simple matter and many times as a boy I ^{5³pm} loaded a ~~very~~ heavy log myself with the use of a team. The wagon is placed parallel with the log, say about ten feet distant. The horses are taken around and backed up to the wagon on the opposite side from the log. Skids are placed with one end at the log and the other end on top of the side rail and spaced about eight feet or more apart. A Chain is attached to the side rail near one end of the skid and circled out as far as log and back where it is fastened to the side rail near the other skid. Another log chain is passed from the horses over the wagon and on over the log and under when it is hooked to the chain attached to the side rails. As the team starts walking from the wagon, the log rolls up the skids and on top of the wagon. Poles have been placed inside the rails on the side next to the horses to keep the log from falling off. These poles are anchored to the gears so as to withstand the roll of the log if it happens to roll to far. After the log is resting on top of the wagon, chains are put over and around it and fastened with a hickory boom pole somewhat like tightening a tourniquet. It is a simple as that. The log hauler knew how to make the hitch so as to make the log shift as it rolled. That is, how to make it forward or backward as desired.

In later years after the fields had been farmed long enough for the stumps to disappear and after the Cradle gave way to the reaper, a mowing machine came into use to cut hay and this machine had a platform attachment to bolt onto the mower for harvesting the wheat and oats. It had rakes that revolved round and round and could be set so that say, every fifth rake would show off enough to make a bundle. Men followed the machine and bound the sheaves by hand. I will remember how, in my time three or four men would be stationed around the field and one man following the machine, would bind up to a certain station at about the time the machine came around and overtook him and then the man at that station would take over and follow the machine till he was overtaken. This was long before the self binder came into use.

The social life in those earlier days were yet well remembered when I was a child. Conveyance was by horseback, wagon or spring wagon. Saddles and side saddles were among our family possessions when I was small. Ladies would never have ridden a man's saddle. They rode side saddle like we've seen in later years in circus parades. Singing schools were held at night where girl met boy - husking bees in the fall and the boy who found a red ear got to kiss somebody - I don't know who. Spelling schools were held in the early fall when the weather was nice - they'd spell a while then go out and play "London Bridge" or "Over the River to Charley" or "Drop the Handkerchief". Somebody always got kissed - I think. Then after about an they would go in and "spelledown". The women had quilts - "bees" and they had much fun - so they told us. They had never seen a telephone or an electric light, an Automobile, a radio or television and from our present day thinking, they had never seen anything but at those social doings boy met girl and girl met boy and that was life.

Nearly every family had rifles for shooting game. In the log houses with high fireplaces, they had andirons and hooks to hang pots on. Above was a wide mantel where "Whatnot" articles were displayed. The rifles hung on pegs on the side of the wall and the powder horn hung with it. The powder horn was the horn of a cow tightly plugged at the big end and the point from which the powder was poured was plugged with a cork. In loading this long barreled rifle, a man would stand it with the butt on the ground, pour into the end of the barrel a charge of powder, followed it with a bit of wadding, then pull out the ramrod from its place under the barrel and ram the charge down, then follow it with a bullet and another wadding and ram that down hard, put the ramrod back in place, place a cap over the primer and he was ready to shoot. There was plenty of game, and I've heard my Father tell about shooting wild turkeys which were numerous.

About the time that Grandfather brought his family from Knox County, the Gillen family came from New Jersey and located about two miles west of Dunkirk close to the line where the Pennsylvania Railroad was built in 1858. Soon after they were settled, the father had to return to New Jersey to make collections due him as a stone mason contractor. It was believed he was robbed and killed for they never heard of him except word that he had visited relatives. He was said to have been a man who was very devoted to his family and there was never any doubt of anything but foul play. He was my Grandfather Gillen. His daughter, Marinda Gillen, was my mother. I think my father met her at a "singing school" when she was seventeen years old. They were married July 1, 1855. My Father was twenty three. There were four boys and two girls in the Gillen family. As I knew them they were a happy, jovial family and of the kindest dispositions. Three of the boys served in the Army as volunteers and many times I've visited them in their log houses and heard them tell of army life. They could always see the funny side of things and how they could laugh. My mother was a most lovable character. She could always see the good in other people and was entirely selfless in her contact with others. Her prayers seemed to be the sincerest I've ever heard. Oftentimes at the family worship she would take her turn, read the scriptures and offer the prayer. Everybody loved her that knew her.

All of the Gillev boys acquired little farms, raised nice families but never acquired more than forty acres, except the oldest who was a contractor in Springfield, Ohio and who was quite well-to-do. I have a pocket rule inlaid with ^{ivory} given to my father by one of the Gillems over a hundred years ago. My father carried it from my earliest recollection until he died when it was given to me. I will pass it on to one of my grandsons.

Our lineage as far back as we can trace it, sprouts from the union of Andrew Jones and Margaret Wolfe Jones - Andrew born in Wales in 1764 and Margaret born in New Jersey in 1765. They were married in Morris County, New Jersey in 1793. Margaret Wolfe is said to have been a near relative of General James Wolfe, an English general killed at the Battle of Quebec in 1759. The name Wolfe appears frequently as a middle name of some of the descendants of Margaret Wolfe!

Andrew Jones

Born in Wales, Great Britain, October 4, 1764, emigrated to America and some time later (1793) married Margaret Wolfe who was born in New Jersey, Morris County in 1765. They had fine children. From the Archives in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, we find Andrew and Margaret selling four hundred acres of land in Providence Twp., Bedford County, Pennsylvania, four years after they were married. We think their first child, Catherine, was born in New Jersey before they went to Pennsylvania, but we do not know. Did they move to Pennsylvania and locate on the four hundred acres before she was born? They sold the land as we shall see later and it appears that they moved back to New Jersey since the records show that the two youngest children, John & Peter were born in New Jersey. The record of their movements is not clear but upon examination of dates of certain events we form a pretty accurate ~~conclusion~~ conclusion so we believe.

In Vol. XXII - page 173 Tax Book - Records of Bedford County, Pennsylvania, we find that Andrew was taxed in Providence twp. on 100 acres, 2 horses, 2 cows, the sum of One pound - 2 shillings - 10 pence. This was in 1783 (ten years before they were married). Vol XXV, page 551, shows Andrew getting a deed for four hundred acres of land - date of survey, June 22, 1792, (one year before they were married). Next the Deed Book G, pages 540-541, land records of the Bedford County Court house show that he sold four hundred acres, including all improvements, rights, title, etc., for five shillings (special) to George F. Alberti. This transaction occurred on the 28th of November, 1796, and was notarized in the presence of one Benj. Ferguson. The deed was recorded on the 21st day of April 1797. Note the second child George was born 26 days prior to the sale to

Mr. Alberti, so if Andrew and Margaret were living on the acres at the time of the sale we must conclude that George was born there.

It is doubtful that Andrew had a war record as he was only seventeen years old when Cornwallis surrendered in 1781. Vol. IV, Page 242, Military Archives of Bedford County, Pennsylvania, shows Andrew's name in a published list of Providence twp. inhabitants, "Subject by Law to Military Duty". This list was made by one, Peter Margaret in January, 1789.

It is clear that Andrew was in Pennsylvania at an early age since the tax records show that he was taxed on land, horses and cows when he was 19 years of age, ten years before his marriage. He was only 17 when Cornwallis surrendered in 1781. He might have been in the army at that age, I leave that to others.

Margaret Wolfe Jones,

Wife of Andrew, born in New Jersey, December 23, 1765 - married Andrew 1793 - mother of five children - 2 girls - 3 boys. Catherine, George, Mary, John and Peter.

John Jones Family and descendants

- 1 - John Jones, fourth child of Andrew and Margaret Jones -- b in New Jersey 11-21-1800, d. in Hardin County, Ohio 8-10-1866. m. Sarah Brodbery in Pennsylvania in 1822. He and his new bride settled in Knox County, Ohio, the same year. Their nine children, ~~their nine~~ were all born in Knox County, Ohio. In the order of their ages, they were Abner, Andrew, Christopher, Mary, John (Morgan), George, Charles, Margaret and Sarah. Sarah died in infancy. Abner, Christopher, George and Charles all served in the Union Army during the Civil War - more of their records later.

"Grandpappy"

I never saw my Grandfather John Jones, he having died eight years before I was born. In speaking of him my father and mother always called him "grandpappy". I seem to remember hearing them speak of him often with great affection. I have seen pictures of both grandparents. The pictures were set in old fashioned oval frames and hung side by side on the wall in our home. Grandpappy's showed a serene and happy face but Grandmother's likeness, I've come to believe, reflected a stern and perhaps a ruling character. Drawing my own conclusions, I am persuaded that her stern qualities were reflected in all of her sons of whom my Father was one. I've always thought that they were reared by precept and example - the mother administering the precept and the father setting the example. I, of course, gathered this more or less instinctively and hearing things. The boys all grew up to be good men with positive ideas - not a weakling amongst them. They had their share of vicissitudes in the past and they had no fear of the future. At their Country's Call four of them volunteered and served with distinction. These sons of Grandpappy impressed us boys with the fact that being honest and morally decent was the natural way of life and that society and the Jones papas expected nothing less.

Let's stop a minute and look at the Jones in 1832 - that's about the half way mark for John and Sarah. They were then in Knox County near Mt. Vernon. Andrew and Margaret were there (they of the Revolutionary war period) Andrew was 68 and he died. Margaret was 67.

This son John (who was my Grandfather) and his wife Sarah were there in the prime of life, he 32 and she 34. Their four children, Abner 10, Andrew 7, Christopher 5 and Mary 3 and in that same year about five months after his Grandfather died, my father was born. There we have them with a growing young family looking forward to the unknown future with faith, hope and ambition - before they left Knox County all of their nine children had been born. From here we'll follow them, their children and children's children.

"Uncle Will" as we called him, was elected Clerk of the Court of Hardin County. He died in Dunkirk, Ohio in 1921. Margaret was a popular young school teacher prior to her marriage. Hoopskirts, side saddles, huckling bees and singing schools were all a part of the society she knew in the days of her youth. The Flemings had three children - Olga, Dean and Daw.

3-Olga Dale Fleming (Clark), b. 7-16-1872 - educated in piano - taught music and dancing before her marriage to W.B. Clark in 1899. Olga and Will were members of the Duffies Club, a society club with rather a unique history. Organized and named by a group of small boys who held their meetings in a hen house at the back of a neighbor's lot, the organization attracted the attention of the older sisters and brothers who dignified the Club by renting a hall - it grew to be a select Club - the elite of Kenton Society. Olga and Will were parents of two boys - Rittner and Jerome.

- End of Margaret Jones Fleming line —
This is also the end of the genealogical line beginning with Andrew and Margaret Jones who were born in Revolutionary days.

"All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players;
They have their exit and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts."
— Shakespeare —

And so we've seen old Andrew and his wife Margaret come onto the stage, act their parts briefly and pass on into silence. Their children and children's children, each in turn pass before the spotlight and move on with time — like an endless belt.

1 Andrew Jones:

Born in Wales, Great Britain, Oct 4, 1764 emigrated to America and some time later (1793) married Margaret Wolfe who was born in New Jersey, Morris County in 1765. They had five children. From the Archives in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, we find Andrew and Margaret selling four hundred acres of land in Providence Twp, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, four years after they were married. We think their first child, Catherine, was born in New Jersey before they went to Pennsylvania. They sold the land as we shall see later and it appears that they moved back to New Jersey since the records show that the two youngest children, John and Peter were born in New Jersey.

In Vol. XXII - page 173 Tax Book - Records of Bedford County, Pennsylvania, we find that Andrew was taxed in Providence Twp. on 100 acres, 2 horses, 2 cows, the sum of one pound - 2 shillings - 10 pence. This was 1783 (two years before they were married). Vol XXV - pages 551, shows Andrew getting a deed for four hundred acres of land - date of survey, June 22, 1792 (one year before they were married) kept the Deed Book G, pages 540-541, land records of the Bedford County Court house show that he sold four hundred acres, including all improvements, rights, title, etc. for five shillings (special) to George Alberti. This transaction occurred on the 28th of Nov. 1796, and was notarized in the presence of one Benj. Ferguson. The deed was recorded on the 21st day of April, 1797. Note the second child George was born 26 days prior to the sale to Mr. Alberti.

Andrew was ^{Revolution war} record is found in Vol IV page 242 - Military Archives Bedford County, Penn.

A Pioneer Gone.

One by one the old land marks are being removed. A new generation peoples our land. The change comes so gradually that we are scarcely conscious of the changes that are taking place about us. We are made to realize it more fully, however, when an old settler whose gray hairs we have been accustomed to look upon passes away. Another such has passed from us in the death of Andrew Jones, of Washington township. Andrew D. Jones was born in Knox Co., O., May 22, 1825 and died at his home in Washington Tp., April 9, '96 being 70 years, 10 months and 17 days of age. He lived in Knox Co., until 1850 at which time he removed to Hardin county where he resided until the time of his death. On Sept. 23, 1850 he was united in marriage with Miss Jane E. Moses, the marriage ceremony being performed by Harrison P. Darst. This union was blessed with three children; John A. Jones who died about fifteen months since, Sarah A. wife of Nathan Spaulding and Milton who died at the age of one month. He was one of the early settlers of Hardin Co., and knew the toil and hardship of pioneer life. But he took them cheerfully and bore them with manly courage. By patient industry and careful frugality he cleared a good farm, built a good home and surrounded himself with the comforts of this life. In this way he is an example for the young men of our day, teaching them that industry, honesty and economy are sure roads to success. While he was careful to provide for the wants of this life, he was not wedded to this world. He did not barter away eternity for the fleeting pleasures of time. While building and earthly home, he sought to prepare for the habitation of the "mansion" which his heavenly Friend had gone to prepare for him. He was converted in early life and joined the Presbyterian church. Later he changed his church relations and became a member of the U. B. church and when that church divided he remained a member of the radical wing. He was true to his church even to the last and his last moments were occupied with thoughts concerning his Master's kingdom. His last words were "Oh God help the brethren to be faithful." His suffering was great but was borne with patience and Christian fortitude. He never murmured at pain. He greeted everyone who came to his bedside with a smile showing even to the last the same spirit that had made him so useful and efficient as a worker in church and Sabbath school. He leaves the wife who has walked by his side so faithfully through the heat of life's battle; one daughter and many relatives and friends to mourn their loss which we trust is his gain. The funeral services were held at the house April 11, at 10 o'clock a. m. where a large number of friends were gathered to pay their last respects to the dead and express their sympathy for the bereaved ones of the home.

Rev. E. A. Strother officiated preaching the sermon from II Cor. v:1 and the body was laid to rest in the cemetery a short distance west of the home to await the trumpet call at the resurrection morning.

OBITUARY

Jane Elizabeth Moses was born in Barkhamstadt, Connecticut, on January 5, 1827, when but three years of age, she with her parents and three older brothers, came to Ohio, settling on the Western Reserve, in the village of Windham, with a colony of Connecticut people where they lived five years, going from there to Roots town, Ohio, where her education was finished. At the age of 18, she came with the family to Hardin county and settled on her brother Lauren's farm. She taught two terms in the Pore school and one term in a log hut situated on what is now known as the Getz farm. On September 23, 1850, she was married to Andrew Jones, who departed this life, April 9, 1896.

To this union were born three children, John Asa and Moses Milton, who have preceded her to the spirit world and Mrs Sarah A. Spaulding, who resides at Monroeville, Indiana.

Eight grand-children and five great grand-children survive her departure from this life which occurred October 27, 1913, her age being 86 years, 9 months and 22 days.

Mrs Jones was one of a family of seven children, having three brothers older and three brothers younger than herself, of the latter, two, Lauren H. Moses, whose home is in Pittsburg, Pa., and Henry Moses of Manson, Iowa are living.

Mrs Jones was a faithful christian, having her membership in the U. B. church for many years. The funeral services were held at the home on Thursday, October 30, in charge of her pastor Rev W. R. Arnold, which services were largely attended by relatives, neighbors and friends.

Interment was made in the cemetery near by.

First of the name to emigrate from England to America. English ancestry and birthplace uncertain. All agree that the original home of people of the Barber name was Normandy and that they came into England at the time of the Norman Conquest in the 11th Century.

1 - Thomas Barber - 1 From Colonial Records of Windsor, Conn., it is learned that he was probably born in the County of Bedfordshire, England about 1614 and died Sept 1, 1662 in Windsor, Conn. He came to Windsor in 1635 with a party fitted out by Sir Richard Saltonstall under Richard Stiles, a master Carpenter.

Great Grandmother (Jane Elizabeth) said she had her first print dress when she was about 15 years old. The first time she wore it to a picnic she and a group of young people were playing and she caught the pretty dress on a briar and tore it, which made her feel very badly.

Great Grandmother (Jane Elizabeth) said she went to the Post Office at Williamstown to get her mail often. The Postmaster said, "Miss Moses you get more mail than any one else around here."

She got letters from her cousins and friends in her former home towns.

15.—THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF GENERAL GRANT.*

CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES:—Your suffrages having elected me to the office of President of the United States, I have, in conformity with the Constitution of our country, taken the oath of office prescribed therein. I have taken this oath without mental reservation, and with the determination to do, to the best of my ability, all that it requires of me.

The responsibilities of the position I feel, but accept them without fear. The office has come to me unsought; I commence its duties untrammelled. I bring to it a conscientious desire and determination to fill it, to the best of my ability, to the satisfaction of the people. On all leading questions agitating the public mind I will always express my views to Congress, and urge them according to my judgment, and when I think it advisable, will execute the constitutional privilege of interposing a veto to defeat measures which I oppose. But all laws will be faithfully executed, whether they meet my approval or not.

I shall on all subjects have a policy to recommend, none to enforce against the will of the people. Laws are to govern all alike—those opposed to as well as those in favor of them. I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effective as their stringent execution.

The country having just emerged from a great rebellion, many questions will come before it for settlement in the next four logical Register. It was a continuation of the notes which are given in Siles' Windsor. The above is a new and careful revision of this genealogy, much enlarged, from information furnished by Jesse K. Grant, Esq., Hon. J. H. Trumbull, of Hartford, Dr. Porter, of Coventry, Mr. Wheeler, and others.

*General Grant took the oath of office, as President of the United States, at the Capitol, Washington, at 12 o'clock, noon, March 4, 1869.

years, which preceding Administrations have never had to deal with. In meeting these, it is desirable that they should be appreciated calmly, without prejudice, hate, or sectional pride, remembering that the greatest good to the greatest number is the object to be attained. This requires security of person and property, and for religious and political opinion in every part of our common country without regard to local prejudice. All laws to secure this end will receive my best efforts for their enforcement.

A great debt has been contracted in securing to us and our posterity the Union. The payment of this principal and interest, as well as the return to a specie basis as soon as it can be accomplished, without material detriment to the debtor class or to the country at large, must be provided for.

To protect the national honor, every dollar of the Government indebtedness should be paid in gold, unless otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract. Let it be understood that no epudiator of one farthing of our public debt will be trusted in public places, and it will go far toward strengthening a credit which ought to be the best in the world, and will ultimately enable us to replace the debt with bonds bearing less interest than we now pay. To this shall be added a faithful collection of the revenue; a strict accountability to the Treasury for every dollar collected, and the greatest practicable retrenchment in expenditures in every department of Government.

When we compare the paying capacity of the country now, with ten States still in poverty from the effects of the war, but soon to emerge, I trust, into greater prosperity than ever before, with its paying capacity twenty-five years ago, and calculate what it probably will be twenty-five years hence, who can doubt the feasibility of paying every dollar then with more ease than we now pay for useless luxuries? Why, it looks as though Providence had bestowed upon us a strong box, the precious metals locked up in the sterile mountains of the far West, which we are now forging the key to unlock, to meet the very contingency that is now upon us.

Ultimately it may be necessary to increase the facilities to reach these riches, and it may be necessary also that the General Government should give its aid to secure this access. But that should only be when a dollar of obligation to pay secures precisely the same sort of dollar in use now, and not before.

While the question of specie payments is in abeyance, the prudent business man is careful about contracting debts payable in the distant future; the nation should follow the same rule. A pros- trate commerce is to be rebuilt, and all industries encouraged. The young men of the country—those who form this age and must be rulers twenty-five years hence—have a peculiar interest in maintaining the national honor. A moment's reflection upon what will be our commanding influence among the nations of the earth in their day, if they are only true to themselves, should inspire them with national pride. All divisions, geographical, political, and religious, can join in the common sentiment.

How the public debt is to be paid, or specie payment resumed, is not so important as that a plan should be adopted and acquiesced in. A united determination to do is worth more than divided counsels upon the method of doing. Legislation on this subject may not be necessary now, nor even advisable, but it will be when the civil law is more fully restored in all parts of the country, and trade resumes its wonted channels. It will be my endeavor to execute all laws in good faith, to collect all revenues assessed, and to have them properly disbursed. I will, to the best of my ability, appoint to office only those who will carry out this design.

In regard to foreign policy, I would deal with nations as equitable law requires individuals to deal with each other, and I would protect the law-abiding citizen, whether of native or foreign birth, wherever his rights are jeopardized or the flag of our country floats. I would respect the rights of all nations, demanding equal respect for our own. If others depart from this rule in their dealings with us, we may be compelled to follow their precedent.

The proper treatment of the original occupants of the land, the Indians, is one deserving of careful consideration. I will favor any course toward them which tends to their civilization, Christianization and ultimate citizenship.

The question of suffrage is one which is likely to agitate the public so long as a portion of the citizens of the nation are excluded from its privileges in any State. It seems to me very desirable that this question should be settled now, and I entertain the hope and express the desire that it may be by the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

In conclusion, I ask patient forbearance one toward another, throughout the land, and a determined effort on the part of every citizen to do his share toward cementing a happy union, and I ask the prayers of the nation to Almighty God in behalf of this happy consummation.
